IN MEMORIAM

IN MEMORY OF
MRS. S. M. THORNTON

She went to sleep so peacefully,
To awake in His home over there;
To rest for aye with the Heavenly Host,
In the Mansion He went to prepare.

She is free from all trouble and suffering,
She's free from life's sorrow and pain;
We feel our loss, oh, so keenly,
But we know our loss is her gain.

We would not wish her back again,
In this world of sorrow and sin;
She awaits to open the beautiful gate,
For her loved ones to enter in.

That will be a joyful meeting,
In a home so bright and fair;
In Heaven above where all is love,
There'll be no parting there.

—N. L. McClenny. (1t)

Early Detection, Not Age, Important In Cancer Cases

NEW YORK—Early detection of cancer can often lead to successful treatment or at least to substantial relief even in persons of advanced age, it is emphasized by the Insurance Company statisticians.

Periodic health examinations of the elderly are a practical means of early detection, the company points out, adding that educational measures suitable to persons in later life should be devised to make these people aware of the danger signals that may mean the presence of cancer.

Cancer ranks among the foremost problems of geristric medicine, the Metropolitan statisticians point out. In 1956 there were more than 126,600 cancer deaths in the United States among persons at ages 65 and over. In that age group, cancer as a cause of death is outranked only by heart disease and cerebral hemorrhage, and accounts for about 13 per cent of the total mortality in this group.

The statisticians estimate that at present there are about 305,000 new cases of cancer each year among persons over 65, and that one in every four persons reaching that age will eventually develop cancer. In the course of a year, there is one new case of cancer among every 65 men at ages 65-69; the proportion is one in 33 at ages 85 and over. Among women, the corresponding rise is from one case in every 80 to one in every 44.

Permanent Pleats For Men's Pants

NEW YORK—Development of a process to produce permanent pleats in all-wool dresses and skirts and permanent knife-sharp creases in men's all-wool trousers which will not come out in the rain, warm soapy water or dry cleaning was announced from Australia today through the Wool Bureau in New York.

Developed in the Geelong, Victoria, laboratories of the Commonwealth Scientific and Industrial Research Organization, the process, patented in Australia, is known as "SI-RO-SET." It has proved successful in tests in several Australian apparel factories and in actual wear trials and is now being licensed to approved firms in that country.

In the process, the garment is sprayed with a weak chemical solution just before the final pressing. The crease is then fixed by steam pressing for 15 seconds. Completely safe for factory application, the process is described as having "no damaging effects on wool and producing pleats and creases that last indefinitely."

Health Insurance Payments Increasing

NEW YORK—Benefit payments to Americans covered by voluntary health insurance through insurance company policies were 15% higher during the first nine months of 1957 than for the same period the year before, the Health Insurance Institute announced. Reports from the nation's insurance companies showed that from January 1 through September 30, 1957, an estimated $1.8 billion had been paid to help pay hospital and doctor bills and to replace income lost because of accident or sickness.

Benefits paid under group health insurance policies covering hospital, surgical and medical care and loss of income totaled $1.3 billion by the end of the third quarter, an increase of 20% over the same period for 1956, while the rise in benefits under individual and family type policies was over $469 million, an increase of 4%.

Tomato of the Future Resists All Diseases

RIVERSIDE—University of California plant breeders are making progress toward their goal of developing a tomato with built-in resistance to tobacco mosaic, nematodes, verticellium wilt and fusarium wilt.

By wrapping these four kinds of resistance into a single package, thousands of dollars in crop losses can be prevented annually, according to Robert K. Scott, plant geneticist on the University's Riverside campus.

Working with a hybrid of wild South American tomatoes produced by researchers at the Hawaii Agricultural Station, Scott found that it was resistant to tobacco mosaic, neither symptoms nor the virus appears in innoculated plants. He found the resistance to be due to a single dominant gene.
